

OVER THE RAINBOW

On days with a little bit of rain and a little bit of sunshine you might see a beautiful rainbow. Rainbows are formed when the white light from the sun hits water droplets in the air, and then breaks and scatters. This white light is composed of seven different colors, which all appear together in the sky.

Irish legends say that at the end of the rainbow lives a mischievous elf called a leprechaun, who keeps a pot of gold. Spot at least 10 differences between the two pictures of leprechauns below.
